

Cuiabá, 9 December 2021 – The global environmental non-profit organization CDP recognized AMAGGI as the only global soy production and trading company to reach an ‘A’ score for tackling deforestation in 2021, according to the annual environmental disclosure published last Tuesday (7). This is the third time in a row that AMAGGI gets recognized by CDP for the way the Company tackles deforestation in the soy sector; after scoring an ‘A-’ in 2019 and 2020, this year AMAGGI has secured a place in the CDP’s ‘A List’ for global forests stewardship.

The scoring expresses AMAGGI's recognition as one of the few high-performing companies in the world towards corporate sustainability. Through significant demonstrable action to tackle deforestation in its supply chain and source more sustainable commodities, AMAGGI is leading on corporate environmental ambition, action, and transparency worldwide.

CDP’s annual environmental disclosure and scoring process are widely recognized as the gold standard of corporate environmental transparency and performance on climate change, forests, and water security. In 2021, over 590 investors with over US$110 trillion in assets and 200 major purchasers with US$5.5 trillion in procurement spend requested companies to disclose data on environmental impacts, risks, and opportunities through CDP’s platform. A record-breaking 13,000 companies responded. Only 272 of them - worth US$12 trillion in market cap - got highlighted on CDP’s ‘A List’ for their environmental leadership.

CDP uses a detailed and independent methodology to assess these companies, allocating a score of ‘A’ to ‘D-’. The scoring for forests is conducted through the perspective of commodities like timber products, cattle products, soy, and palm oil. Companies need to score an ‘A’ on at least one of these commodities to earn a place on the Forests ‘A List’.

Reaching the ‘A List’ demonstrates that AMAGGI is on the right path towards a Deforestation and Conversion Free Grain Chain, and in line with the agenda established at COP 26. Along with the constant improvement of our sustainability processes, we expect other companies to join us in a transformational process regarding the entire commodities supply chain.

AMAGGI has publicly committed to eliminating deforestation and conversion in its value chain by 2025, as part of the Company’s new ESG goals, announced in September. Also, AMAGGI has joined the Science Based Targets Initiative (SBTi), through the Business Ambition for 1.5°C campaign, and now the Company is also part of the Race to Zero global movement, led by the United Nations. AMAGGI expects to reach NetZero emissions by 2050, committed to SBTi, through decarbonization strategies until 2035 and neutralization of any residual emissions, becoming the 1st Brazilian company to take on this ambition and commitment.
