

Cuiabá, 15 February 2022 – AMAGGI confirms that, after being contacted by an operator in the sector, it is conducting assessments regarding the possibility of providing services in agricultural inputs. AMAGGI informs that, for now, there is no binding object, and that the companies are unable to provide more information due to confidentiality obligations they have assumed.

AMAGGI reinforces that all the company's businesses - from the feasibility assessment stage, through the decision-making process and operation - are conducted following criteria established by the socio-environmental commitments and policies assumed by the company, in line with the applicable legislation and with the competent environmental agencies' norms.

Over its 45 years, AMAGGI has consolidated its socio-environmental responsibility as one of the pillars of its performance on all business fronts, a practice widely recognized by the market and by the communities where the company is present with its operations.
